Investment Philosophy

We are "total return" investors.

Our conviction is that companies with the financial strength and discipline to maintain and grow their dividend commitments outperform.

Uniquely, we find such companies across all capitalisations, and in every sector and every region, even ones where dividends are low and not typically used as a method of analysis. By "looking where others don't look" we consistently find and exploit mispriced stocks.

The main reasons for outperformance are:

- Quality of information
- Better governance
- Plentiful positive earnings surprises
- Capital efficiency and financial discipline
- Lower volatility
- Better valuations

Overview

We continued to ensure that the dividend flow on offer from the strategy was sustainable. There are many companies that are displaying very high dividend yields, but we would have concerns over the sustainability of such dividends given the uncertain economic outlook. In response, we lowered our dividend tilt slightly as we focused on safe and secure dividends. The dividend yield on the portfolio was 3.3% as at the end of the quarter which is still a healthy premium over the index.

What is clear is that although there has been a significant reduction and, in some cases, elimination of dividend payments in companies across the globe, there are still a high number of stocks with strong dividend resilience. Interestingly most of the significant dividend cutting has occurred in the European region. In North America, dividend growth over 1-year is still positive but is in low single digits. Our tilt towards dividend growth increased over the quarter as we continued our search for companies that have secure and growing dividends. If you want more information on this state of dividend payments on a global basis, please consult our paper on this topic which was circulated to clients prior to the quarter end.

As stated previously, our primary focus in response to the pandemic was to analyse balance sheets in terms of having significant cash reserves and low debt obligations. This continued into Q2 as we maintained our emphasis on higher quality metrics across the portfolio, while also reducing our exposure to net debt to equity. Importantly, we were able to do this without sacrificing our commitment to value. Indeed, we managed to increase our value tilt marginally across most metrics.
